

2020-2021 Title I Parent & Family Engagement Plan Summary

District Parent & Family Engagement Plan

The Flagler County School District helps to support schools receiving Title I funds to encourage active participation of families, as required by Title I, Part A. This plan includes a commitment to build the capacity of family engagement at schools by strengthening partnerships with families and schools. The district plan was created based on the parent and family engagement plans of our Title I schools. To achieve the academic goals of Title I schools, the following will be conducted, supported and/or monitored throughout the school year:

- Parent and Family workshops
- School Advisory (SAC) meetings
- Parent Surveys
- Consultations & Technical Assistance
- District Parent Advisory Committee (DPAC) meetings

General Expectations

Research shows that family engagement in the academics of children helps raise student achievement. Title I schools are striving to raise family engagement with the belief that all families have the capacity to support their child's learning. It is the responsibility of Title I school leaders and staff to build relationships and partnerships with families and the communities they live in.

How are the family engagement plans created?

- Title I schools conduct annual needs assessments to reflect on what worked and what didn't work during the previous year in regards to family engagement.
- Schools identify barriers that keep families from participating in their child's academics and try to overcome these obstacles.
- Schools ask families for their input on the parent and family engagement plan through surveys and at parent meetings such as the School Advisory Committee (SAC) which is open to any and all parents.
- Schools look at data for patterns and areas of need.

Coordination and Integration

The Title I Department will also coordinate and provide parental engagement resources with a focus on family engagement strategies with programs such as:

- Head Start
- English Language Learners
- Families in Transition

Parents from Title I Schools! We want and need your input!

During the year we ask that you please participate in various surveys and/or attend parent meetings such as SAC or DPAC, either in person or virtually. We truly need your input to help base our family engagement decisions on. Thank you!
